

CSS STUDIO

Open the app. A music video plays.
With sound. Instantly.

The audible, in-cinema “watch + create” layer for AI video.

AI media is split in half. Nobody owns the whole experience.

Music-only

Suno · Udio — a song, but no video. You get a file.

Video-only

Sora · Kling · Runway — a clip, but silent. You get a file.

Audiences get files to download — not a place to enjoy.

Never burn the layers together.

Lyrics

Audio

Video

kept as separate layers

→ any work is infinitely re-voiceable & re-languageable.

Burned-in output (everyone else) can never do this.

Zero-friction watch. In-cinema create.

Watch

Open the app → an audible, full-screen MV feed. Zero gestures, sound on.

Create

Type one line → it generates and plays in the same cinema panel.

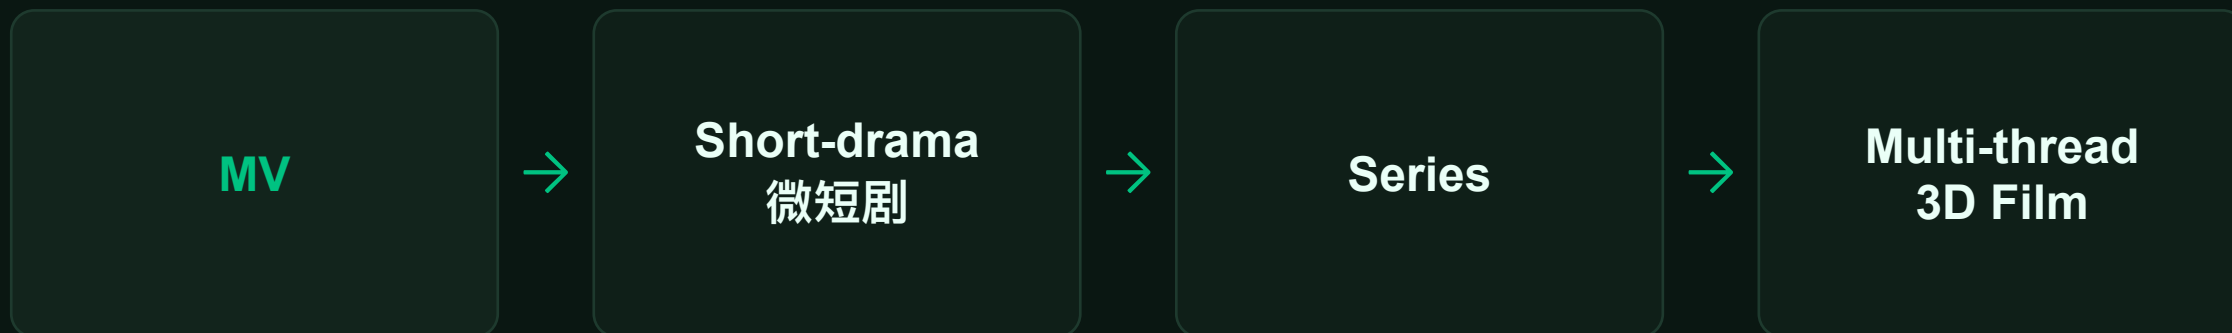

Re-voice

Multi-language & multi-voice on every work — one tap.

Generation got cheap. The destination layer is empty.

Everyone is building tools. No one owns AI-video-with-sound consumption + distribution.
CSS Studio is a destination, not a tool.

MV today → the long-form ladder.

Same layered pipeline scales up each rung — TAM grows with every step.

Multiple revenue surfaces — already wired.

Real product depth — public user acquisition not yet started. The raise is to launch & prove retention.

Not a model. An architecture + a surface.

Layered pipeline

Lyrics/audio/video never burned
— infinitely re-voiceable.

Civilization-aware

Lyrics, singing & art follow each persona's culture.

In-cinema loop

Enjoy → create → trade on one surface = retention.
